SALVATION ARMY WORK

Is To Minister to All and Not to Any Single Class.

One gets a very poor idea of the real extent of the Salvation Army's great work by seeing the few comrades in such small cities as Barre, who bravely strugde on, never heeding obstacles, to do their small part to accomplish the great work the Army is doing. Most intelligent people the world over, are fast coming to realize the great facilities posessed by the Salvation Army for doing both temporal and spiritual good, which are not possessed by any other one or-ganization. In fact, the public is so thoroughly aware that the Army is aiding the poor outcasts in a different manner than any other organization, that ber, think the mission of the Army is reading and socialism at 7 p. m. only to aid such persons. Yet the Army is for all classes of people, and for people in all conditions. The richest man in the country and the poor "dawn and fallen girl, the Army considers its mis-
